Paul Anthony Ayala

For 17 years on the force, police officer Paul Ayala utilized the “Police Standards of Professional Behaviors” which consists of honesty and integrity, respect and courtesy, equality and diversity, etc, etc... The equality and diversity part of the “Police Standards of Professional Behaviors” states: ...when it comes to equality and diversity, police officers are to act with fairness and impartiality; they are never to discriminate against anyone, any sex.

So when ex police officer Paul Ayala made his career move from police officer to child rapist and molester, it came as no surprise that he carried his non-discriminating behavior and began to rape and molest both boys and girls, making sure not to show favoritism to just one sex.

Paul Anthony Ayala, 42, is a 17-year veteran of the Whittier, California police force. I grew up in Whittier and never liked any of the Whittier police officers I met, not one. Like I always said, “The only good cop is an moral cop.”

Ayala retired from the Whittier police department for medical reasons on July 20, 2007. Immediately following his retirement, Ayala began to teach physical education at Beatitudes of Our Lord School Catholic School in La Mirada, California.

While employed at Beatitudes between December 2007 and December 2008, Ayala molested an 11-year-old girl and two 16-year-old girls at the school. However, none of these girls reported the molestations at that time to anyone.

There are many reasons why children don't tell anyone that they were sexually abused. The most common reason why kids don't tell is due to FEAR. Children are afraid no one will believe them, because that is what many abusers brainwash and groom their victims to believe. Children may be threatened by the offender, or the child molester tells the victim that the parents or family members will be physically harmed or killed if the child tells anyone about the abuse.

Children also don't tell because they feel guilty, embarrassed and ashamed, having been groomed by the offender over a period of time to believe they are just as guilty as the offender.

Ayala was eventually laid off from the school in 2008 for budgetary reasons. Unemployed and with no access to his female victims at the Catholic school, horny-toad Ayala decided to literally "trade teams" and started coaching football for the La Mirada Pop Warner football team, the La Mirada Matadores. Ayala also volunteered to coach Pee Wee baseball for the Pop Warner league.

As their coach, Ayala befriended the parents and young boys on his teams. One can only imagine how Ayala won these parents and young boys over. Ayala probably played on the fact that he was an ex police officer, knowing that average people view police officers as protectors, the good guys with high ethical standards, who are mandated to serve and protect others.

Thank goodness PYSIH readers are not average people and would know better to trust just anyone! Also, Ayala is married and has children of his own, so he may have also played the great husband and dad in front of everyone at the games.

Nonetheless, these non suspecting parents allowed Ayala to take the boys over to his house before and after games, not aware of Ayala's appetite for a lil' one-on-one. It was during this time that Ayala molested and raped two 10-year-old boys who played on the La Mirada Pop Warner football team at his home.

One child was molested by Ayala between July and December 2008 and the other child was molested by Ayala between July and December 2009. Unfortunately, again Ayala's victims remained silent about the molestations and rapes and did not report them to anyone.

It was not until recently that one of the 10-year-old boys bravely told a family member of the molestations and the relative reported it to Whittier police. Ayala was arrested and charged with eight counts of lewd acts on a child and one count of oral copulation or sexual penetration of a child under age 10, said Jane Robison, spokeswoman for the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office.

Ayala pleaded not guilty to the charges at his March 3, 2010 arraignment and was being held at Men's Central Jail in Los Angeles, California with his bail set at $8.2 million. The bravery of that 10-year-old boy has helped other victims to come forward and tell police of the molestation they too experienced from Ayala. Norwalk California's Sheriff's Special Victims Bureau Sgt.

But it isn't over yet folks. On Friday, March 26th, 2010, Prosecutors charged Ayala with one count of using force to commit a lewd act on a child and another count of lewd acts on a child. These charges stem from molestation accusations by a third child against Ayala, but the District Attorney's office wouldn't release any details. Ayala's Bail was increased another 2 million dollars to 10.2 million.

Dan Scott said that there is a good chance Ayala will face even more charges. "We believe based on our investigation that there are more victims out there and the investigation continues," says Scott.

I'd like to welcome back another one of my writers from the golden days of my tenure here at People You'll See In Hell. M.B.A. Ms.BadAss was a member of the cadre of excellent writer I was fortunate to have working for me when I first started doing the editor's job and running the site. Can you believe there were times that I had a backlog of stories, and that I was able to post two stories a day for extended periods?

Anyway, M.B.A. Ms.BadAss is a what I like to call a pure writer. The story just seems to flow so naturally from her hand. They are always very detail oriented, but she never lets you forget that the victims are human being who suffered because of the actions of the criminal she is writing about. It's really great to have one of her articles on PYSIH again.

UPDATE – From The Los Angeles County DA's Office:

A former Pop Warner football coach pleaded no contest today to sexually molesting four young boys who played on his teams and to molesting a fifth victim, a teenaged girl, the District Attorney's office announced.

Paul Anthony Ayala, 42, entered the plea before Superior Court Commissioner Loren Di Frank, said Deputy District Attorney Frank Dunnick. He was immediately sentenced to 24 years in state prison as part of a negotiated plea. He will also be required to register as a sex offender for the rest of his life.

Ayala pleaded no contest to four counts of continuous sexual abuse of a child and one count of lewd act on a child involving all five victims, Dunnick.

The victims' families were consulted and approved of the plea agreement and sentence, Dunnick said. Several families made emotional impact statements at today's sentencing.

"Several of the victims and their families expressed concern over testifying in court, and this resolution spares them any additional stress and anxiety brought on by the court process,” Dunnick said.

Police were notified in February after one victim told a family member. The Sheriff’s Department launched an investigation. Ayala was initially charged with one felony count of oral copulation of a child under 10 and eight felony counts of sexual molestation of a child under 14 involving two boys, who were each 10 at the time of the incidents.

Three additional victims – two boys ages 10 and one girl who was 15 when she was fondled – came forward and charges were added. Ayala was charged with sexually molesting the victims between 2008 to February, 2010.

WooHOO!!!! I hope Ayala enjoys being on the receiving end of a lil' one-on-one, because once he gets sentenced to prison, that's what will happen!

It makes me especially pissed off to see a police officer on this sight, because their abusing their power in order to victimize innocent people, and CHILDREN in this case.

Welcome back MBA! Good write up.

I do trust police officers. I have never met a “bad” one yet. I have always been helped and treated like a human being. No problems from me. I know there are bad ones out there. Only a fool would think otherwise.

Hah! The only problem is he'll probably be sent to a prison that keeps the cops, lawyers, etc separate from general population. That is quite unfortunate. I'd love to see this crotch stain get a little one on one with another inmate and be the bitch for once.

Yes unfortunately here is another shit stain, that will end up in some kind of protective custody prison that taxpayers will keep up for years. I want to believe there are more good Police Officers out there than bad it's just that most of the time it's only the bad ones that get the most attention. Kind of like thousands of successful airline flights a day and the only one we hear about is the one that crashed. Lets admit it, it happens in every profession, but this site is about "pysih" no matter what their carreer is. Anyway we could get this guy in a Pakistanian prison and get the same guards that watched Javed Mughal to look after him.

This is such a shame. All of those poor poor children, all of whom I am sure trusted in this POS. It makes me so angry when people sexually abuse a child, they don’t get it. They don’t understand, they can’t understand. It’s not fair, I hate them. If anyone ever “abuses” any of my children I will go to jail for the rest of my life, just to ensure the death of the abuser. I hope he rots.

You're not a Christian. With your gloating, ignorant behavior on this website, it's obvious you have no clue what it is to be a Christian. Your god is not an idiot just because you happen to be.

“It is impossible that no offenses should come, but woe to him through whom they do come! It would be better for him if a millstone were hung around his neck, and he were thrown into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.” (Luke 17:1-2)

You know nothing. Nothing good will ever come of you, or of your boy Paul Anthony Ayala. His story will remain here on PYSIH, along with your comments and our responses, so that anyone who searches his name online will see who he is, and how his friends think. Good job, and thank you.

Reply

-  Homer says:

January 12, 2011 at 8:14 am

Aah, now there's one aspect about catholicism that I've never really understood – that regardless of what you do in life, you always retain the chance of your spot in heaven, as long as you seriously repent and make amends. What, exactly, does that mean? How are you supposed to make amends once you're dead? And does anyone here really think there's a single human being who, upon facing death – or hell, if it exists – would not seriously repent and be sorry for every single wrong they've ever made?

I can't help but wonder if this is one reason why the catholic church has – relatively speaking – so many internal problems. Too many people see the concept of a forgiving god as a get-out-of-hell-FREE-card, and feel free to do whatever they want in life.

Feel like fucking a child? Go right ahead, god forgives you. Feel like killing your wife because you're bored of her or pissed off that she still hasn't learned to make coffee properly? What's stopping you? It's not as if you'll end up in hell, because god loves you, god understands you, and – most important of all – god forgives you.

Fortunately people who think like this are in a minority, and before anyone gets the wrong idea, I'm not pissing all over every single catholic out there. But what I am pissing on is the concept of an all-forgiving god. If god forgives absolutely everything, eventually, what the fuck purpose does a hell even have?

To put it as simply as possible...in order to be forgiven you must be genuinely sorry for what you have done. And I suppose only "God" will know if you're sorry. But then again, shouldn't He already know ? He is "God" after all....and around and around we go.

- God, I'm glad I gave up on religion....

I just saw this post. Well, the Catholic Church doesn't teach that, just because you are sorry, you get forgiven. It actually teaches that you have to repent and make reparation...that is, you have to live your life in a way that shows you are doing your best to make things better. In a case such as this, there really is no way there can be total reparation as the sin was so great, but if this guy spent the rest of his life helping victims, fundraising, telling people what he had done and helping others not to go down that road, then that would be the beginning of forgiveness.

The Catholic Church does not teach – or if priests/teachers do they are wrong – that you get forgiveness if you repent on your deathbed. God is not stupid, and He does not get taken in by that kind of desperation.

God also does not send people to Hell. People, through their rejection of God through their lives by hurting others, being cruel and so on, send themselves to Hell. As they reject God in life, they reject God in death.

Alex,

This is from your pal Jesus....read it carefully.

He says, “And whosoever shall offend one of these little ones that believe in me, it is better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea.” -Mark 9:42

Now go fuck yourself, Alex. If there is a hell your little buddy Paul is gonna burn.

Oh shut the fuck up, you insane little dwarf.

Post proof that 'God' has forgiven this piece of shit for anything. If you're so certain than obviously you should be able to provide some evidence. Simply repeating the same lame mantra over and over again means nothing, you stupid little man.

Here you are extolling the virtues of your 'faith' while simultaneously defending child molesters and condemning everyone else who knows that your little buddy is going to fucking roast for what he has done. – People like you really should be beaten severely with extreme prejudice. You are inherently and utterly useless, and will never be able to convince me that you're worth anything more than fodder for an industrial wood chipper.

Well, I guess you “own” me now. How can I possibly go on with life after I have suffered such devastation and humiliation from such a scathing remark ?

Especially when such a remark is typed by a filthy fucking pedophile such as yourself, Alex Penn. It's quite obvious. Because who would defend a pedophile ? – Wait for it...wait for it...

That's right...another piece of shit pedophile that's who.

Alex, this is not your pedo-congregation, and you're not preaching to the choir. Besides, the more you whine about god's forgiveness, the more convinced I become that you're not here to speak on behalf of ayala, but on behalf of yourself.

Which raises the ugly question of what, exactly, you've done to make you that afraid of being rejected by god. Oh, and by the way, the way I see it, you have good reason to be afraid. You should start spending more time in a sauna, I think. It would help you get used to the heat.

I'm with Maelstrom and Homer too. I believe that God is all-merciful, but He is also just. I don't believe there is any way this guy can get forgiveness just like that...do you really think God, in all His justice, would just forget about the suffering of the little ones this guy brought about, like it was nothing?? Until this man makes FULL reparation to these children he cannot escape God's justice. And unfortunately for him, he can't do that from a prison cell. Besides which, he can never give them back what he took from them.

Why waste your precious time with even that much? Jeezus, do all of you enablers take the same correspondence course online? "Trolling for Dummies" was too tough for you?

I don't know about that Alex the Dumb. It looks to me like Becky has you all figured out. She sure gets under your skin, judging by the way you obsessively respond to every comment she makes about you.

Remember Alex, you don't get judged by what you say, you get judged by the things you do, especially around here.Your words are meaningless, but your behavior – like coming to the defense of a convicted child rapist – say everything about how worthless a human being you are.

 Homer says:
February 12, 2011 at 1:03 am

Well, it's obvious Alex the Enabler thinks he's so much smarter than any of us, so let's take a little look at what he's posted:

"Your the joke." – My the joke? What the fuck does that even mean?

"Your a pathetic little person who thinks she's so smart" – My a pathetic little... Oh! Now I get it. Alex the All-knowing has never heard of a thing called an apostrophe. Wow! This must mean his level of intelligence is somewhere out beyond the boundaries of our understanding.

"i just think you have a pea sized brain" – Why thank you! Most people assume I don't have one at all, so it's so nice to finally get a compliment from someone as turdalicious as you. And I agree, you have a bigger brain than everybody else. Though that's mainly because it's so swollen from all the piss you've accumulated between your ears over the years.

"Grow up and get a life". – Oh, what wit! What originality! Stunning, really, how cutting and devastating a comment can be. sigh I bow to thy greatness and will immediately have a shower for the first time since I was born and, in fact, go out and seek this life you speak of.

In conclusion, all I can say is: I rest my case.

- Max The Cat says:

Here's what the law says, Alex the Dumb. If someone uses a position of authority to cause a person under their control to submit to sex that the person wouldn't otherwise agree to, then the crime of rape has been committed. It doesn't matter if the guy in charge orders his charge to have sex with him or tricks him/her into it, it's still rape.

Personally, I'd like to forget about Paul Ayala, but it seems that some asshole – that's you Alex – keeps bringing him up, complaining about our low opinion of the convicted rapist, and claiming that no rape occurred. How stupid do you have to be to make statements like that, huh? Tell us Alex, just how fucking stupid are you? Are we talking "can't add 2 + 2" stupid or are we talking "doesn't have enough sense to wipe his own ass" stupid?

Reply

-  Homer says:
February 11, 2011 at 2:04 am

Aaah, Alex the shithead is a barrel of laughs, isn't he? And as for his lack of intelligence, let's go back to his first post:

"Sorry to dissappoint you people but paul will not be in hell he is a christian and no matter what you have done god will forgive you its his promise.All you people better worry about where you are going when you die with all the ugly hateful things you say i doubt it will be a good place.”

Anyone else see the huge logical gap there? First he claims that “no matter what you have done god will forgive you” and then – wham! – in the next sentence he’s sending all of us to hell for the ugly hateful things we’ve said. What the fuck happened to the all-forgiving god? Or does that only apply to Ayala and his happy posse of paedophile friends?

I don’t know about you, but I have a hard time seeing how a god would go: “Hey, it’s your pal God, here. If you feel like raping a child, go right ahead, there’s plenty of space for you up here in heaven. But that asshole who called you an asshole can go burn in hell. Oh shit, I called someone an asshole! Fuck, now I’ll have to burn in hell, too! AAAAAAAAAAAAAHHH!!!!!!”

- Max The Cat says:
February 11, 2011 at 12:18 pm

Logical Gap – that’s exactly it Homer. First off, it takes a really low IQ to want to feel sorry for a convicted serial rapist who’s favorite victims were children.

I can see myself reading a site like this, before I ever got involved in PYSIH, and saying, “Wow, these people are pretty hardcore. They’re not giving this guy an inch,” but in the same breath saying, “But wow, look what he did – he deserves every bit of it.”

That’s me of course – perhaps I’m not as developed or civilized as Alex the Dumb. Maybe I need to accept the Lord Jesus Christ as my personal savior, like Paul Ayala and Alex the Dumb did. Maybe then I’ll understand....

Nah....

1st off this is the first time that iv said anything about this guy. I am now a grown woman and this guy "befriended" me when I was a young kid, did the whole you can trust me, im a cop, befriended my parents and was molesting me. I HAVE NEVER SAID ANYTHING ABOUT THIS BEFORE because i was embarrassed about it. I hadnt talked to him for years but around his birthday in Dec of 2009 he called me up and was trying to talk me into coming to see him. I told him to leave me alone and hung up on him. Iv been trying to put the whole thing behind me but im finding it super difficult I have kids of my own now and because of this i am extra careful who is involved in their lives. Im not one to judge if Paul is going to hell or not. But I hope that he gets what he deserves in jail. I suffer daily because of this animal. What kills me tho is didnt he know how wrong what hes been doing is? If he wouldnt have gotten caught he'd be doing the same thing.

First of all, let me say how sorry I am to hear about what Paul Ayala put you through. I'm not surprised at all that he called you in 2009 – it just shows the depth of a pedophile's denial, and why they need to be locked away from the rest of us forever. Ayala truly doesn't think he's done anything wrong, because to face the evil inside him would be too much for his mind to bear. Instead, he feels persecuted and victimized for being different – can you imagine such a thought process? Is it any wonder that I want nothing more than to put a large caliber bullet through the center of Paul Ayala's forehead?

That said, I wish that people like that idiot Alex in the comments above could feel your pain for just one day. I doubt they'd be so quick to come to the defense of the Paul Ayala's of the world.

According to court documents, former Whittier cop Paul Ayala, 42, was sentenced to 24 years in state prison on four counts of continual sexual abuse of a child and one count of lewd act upon a child. He will also be required to register as a sex offender for the rest of his life.

Here's my favorite part:

"Ayala wept and said in a statement he was sorry. 'I was a victim, too,' he said. 'I know the hurt.'"

All the more reason you should have kept your god damned hands to yourself Pauly.
